#WeAre
EEAST

Welcome from our CEO, Neill Moloney

Join Team EEAST as we continue on our journey of improvement to deliver excellent care to patients and become an employer of choice.

As the ambulance service for the people of the east of England, we are committed to providing exceptional emergency care to the communities we serve. In our region we have a diverse geographical area with beautiful landscapes and diverse communities which offer a great start for your career journey.

Our teams are committed to accountability, respect and excellence and demonstrate this through excellent care delivered to patients 24/7, 365 days per year. Working across the region and in partnership with the wider system there is the potential to apply for a variety of roles in various locations.

We are in the process of embedding a new clinical strategy which helps us establish the offer for career development. In addition, new developments in models of care provide the potential for a variety of job roles and an exciting opportunity to be part of innovation both in clinical care and support services. In team EEAST we all work together to support our people and patients – whether in our control rooms, our garages or on the frontline.

Welcome to the team and thank you for choosing Team EEAST – I look forward to meeting you and working with you in shaping the future for health care for our communities.

Who we are

The east of England covers six counties, that's around 7,500 square miles. Providing a 24/7 emergency service that meets the demands of such a vast area is a huge undertaking, but at the East of England Ambulance Service we do just that.

Members of our team are out there now, working across 130 sites and alongside 17 acute hospital trusts. The service we provide is specifically tailored to meet the differing needs of our diverse local communities, whether they're on the coast, in the city, situated near a major road or airport or based in rural farmland.

Our team includes:

- over 5,000 staff and more than 1,200 volunteers
- three ambulance operations centres (EOCs) located in Bedford, Chelmsford and Norwich
- 485 front line ambulances
- 72 rapid response vehicles
- 178 non-emergency ambulances
- 53 hazardous area response team/ major incident/ resilience vehicles.

Not just blue lights

There's more to us than just emergency response though. We also provide non-emergency patient transport services for patients travelling to and from hospital, treatment centres and other similar facilities who can't travel unaided because of a medical condition or frailty.

Our frontline effort is supported by a huge team of support staff, specialising in everything from HR, finance and communications, to engineering, I.T and informatics. With an organisation of this size, and under constant scrutiny, it is vital that our people are experts in their field. It is the reason we invest so much in our training and education programme; we want our staff to develop and as an employer, we need to provide the tools for them to do that.

Making it work for you

We also understand that one size doesn't fit all when it comes to working patterns. Although some roles necessitate a set number of hours or a specific shift pattern, we also offer other positions which incorporate part-time hours, flexible, hybrid and home working.

We pride ourselves on delivering the best possible care for our patients, but we also place great value on the wellbeing of our staff. Recent events have put all of us under more strain than ever before, physically and mentally, and we are working hard to ensure that our teams have the right support in place to manage this. Our staff are central to all that we do and looking after them is imperative.

So, whether you're looking to kickstart your career, get back into work, change direction or just fancy a new challenge, why not get in touch?
We really do offer something for everyone.

#TeamEEAST - Faces of EEAST

I have had many different roles at the Trust since I joined in 2003, all of which have played a part in leading me to my current role as head of clinical development.

It is an exciting time for both the paramedic profession as a whole, and the Trust, and my role as head of clinical development will help support our colleagues to develop in their clinical careers with EEAST.

The sense of direction, duty, and service you get from working for the Trust makes me proud to be a part of the team and to demonstrate impact through the development of new clinical staff here at EEAST.

#TeamEEAST - Faces of EEAST

I qualified as a nurse back in 1998 and then started my foundation degree in Paramedic Science in 2002 with EEAST, before becoming a paramedic in 2005.

I briefly left the Trust in 2010 and went back to nursing, but soon realised I wanted to stay in pre-hospital care, so when the clinical support desk clinician role came up within the emergency clinical advice and triage (ECAT) team, I jumped at the opportunity.

What I love about my role is that similarly to nursing, I am helping people, I'm giving the right care to the patient, despite not seeing them face to face.

#TeamEEAST - Faces of EEAST

 In 2010 I saw a job being advertised for an ambulance fleet assistant (AFA) with the Trust in Kempston. I had always liked the idea of working for an emergency service, so I decided to go for it.

Starting learning at 43 years old was challenging, and then eventually progressing to senior emergency medical technician even more so, but I was proud to wear the uniform and help look after our patients.

Unfortunately, during the pandemic, I caught COVID-19 quite early on which left me with lasting damage to my health.

I applied for an opening in the IT department as a service desk second line technician and I'm now a permanent fixture within the IT team.

EEAST Charity

Raising funds to support the staff, volunteers, and local communities of the East of England Ambulance Service, strengthening the provision of outstanding care to patients.

Together, we make a difference.

The generosity of those that contribute to the EEAST Charity enables us to provide support and improvements to our staff, volunteers and local communities that use our service across the east of England.

Supporting our staff – Supporting health and wellbeing initiatives to improve working lives, enriching workplace environments, providing colleague training, development, and access to wellbeing related services.

Supporting our volunteers – Our lifesaving community first responders provide an early emergency response often in advance of ambulance arrival. These volunteers operate in their local communities and are supported by the charity. Your donations provide equipment, uniform, and various training aids, including lifesaving defibrillators.

Supporting our local communities – Providing community education programmes such as EEAST Heart which educates the public in essential British Life Support (BLS) skills. This vital course is taught by qualified staff and volunteers from the East of England Ambulance Service and fully funded via donations from our supporters.
